New Trends in Public Sector Reporting

Integrated Reporting and Beyond

- Examines new communication tools used by public sector organisations, as well as perceived benefits and other consequences
- Discusses the use of new reporting tools by politicians to create a dialogue with citizens and other stakeholders and to promote public engagement
- Highlights criticalities and implications stemming from the adoption of new reporting frameworks

This book analyses the contribution of the new forms of reporting adopted by Public Sector Organisations in the provision of information on value creation processes to their various stakeholders. The contributors to this volume provide evidence of innovative accounting practices and reporting formats, drawing on case studies from across Europe. Together, they highlight the limitations and opportunities of these new forms of reporting that will require further study and exploration.
